

H. Matthew Bowden

H. Matthew Bowden is the senior executive account manager (SEAM) for the U.S. Air Force, Defense Programs. In this capacity, he reports to the vice president of Business Development.

Mr. Bowden provides leadership for the overall corporate strategy and business development efforts to support the needs of the U.S. Air Force customer.

Prior to being named to his current position, Mr. Bowden was vice president of the West Coast customer support operation in Long Beach, California, where he was responsible for program development and support to the West Coast aerospace community.

Mr. Bowden joined Harris in 1977 as an engineer and has held positions of increasing responsibility in engineering, program management, and business development, serving as vice president—Programs in Defense Programs prior to his assignment in California in 2001.

He joined Rockwell in 1989 as senior programs manager, responsible for standoff weapons development programs, returning to Harris in 1992.

Mr. Bowden holds a B.S. and M.S. in industrial engineering from the University of Central Florida.

He is a member of the Air Force Association and the Armed Forces Communications Electronics Association.

Harris is an international communications and information technology company serving government and commercial markets in more than 150 countries. Harris is dedicated to developing best-in-class assured communications® products, systems, and services.